Wordmark & Lockups

RSSKYLERLIMO, set in Fraunces — the full name as the primary identifier

The wordmark

The entire name, drawn in the brand's own display face.

The wordmark spells the business out in full. It carries the name on first contact — search results, a car door, an invoice, an email footer — where a monogram alone would say nothing to someone who has not booked before.

PRIMARY · LIGHT Midnight on white and light grey grounds

PRIMARY · DARK White with gold “LIMO”, on midnight and charcoal grounds

How it is built

One word, two weights. “RSSKYLER” is set in Fraunces Semibold and “LIMO” in Fraunces Regular, on a single baseline with 4.8% letter-spacing. The weight shift lets the eye read two parts of a twelve-letter name without inserting a space the brand does not have, and the added tracking gives capitals the air they need at display size.

Capitals set the register. Fraunces carries real serif weight at this size, and in caps the name reads as an established house rather than a start-up — the same register as the luxury hospitality and automotive brands this business sits beside. The lowercase domain line beneath it supplies the contrast, so the lockup never becomes a wall of capitals.

The lockups

Three constructions from one wordmark. Proportions are fixed — do not rebuild by eye.

01 — Wordmark

Use — the default. Website header, app, favicon strip, social profiles, anywhere the name alone is enough.

Use — anywhere a customer needs to find you later, offline. Vehicle livery, business cards, print advertising, signage, merchandise.

Use — first-contact surfaces where the category is not obvious. Corporate proposals, trade directories, sponsorship, out-of-market advertising.

Colour

Gold appears in the wordmark on dark grounds only.

WHITE + GOLD	MIDNIGHT	WHITE	BLACK
On midnight Primary, dark	On white Primary, light	On photography Reversed	Single ink Etching, stamps

+ Why “LIMO” is not gold on light grounds

Chapter 02 measures Accent Gold at 2.4 : 1 against white — a failure at every text size. On light grounds the differentiation is carried by weight alone, which reads identically and stays accessible. Gold “LIMO” is reserved for midnight and charcoal, where it measures 6.8 : 1 and passes AA.

Ground rules

Ground	Correct version	Never
Midnight	White with gold “LIMO”	All gold, or midnight
White / light grey	All midnight, weight-differentiated	Any gold
Photography	All white, over a darkened area	Gold, or midnight
Gold fill	All midnight	White

Lowercase alternative

Held as an alternative, not approved for general use. If a surface later calls for a softer, more informal register — social campaigns aimed at wedding clients, for instance — this is the sanctioned way to set the name in lowercase. It is not a substitute for the primary wordmark.

Clear space & minimum size

The rules that keep the wordmark intact once other people place it.

Clear space

Minimum clear space equals the cap height of the wordmark on all four sides.

Nothing enters that margin — type, rules, photographic edges or other logos. On vehicle livery, measure from the panel seam rather than the artwork edge.

Minimum size

Context	Lockup	Minimum width
Screen	Wordmark	140 px
Screen	Wordmark & domain	200 px
Print	Wordmark	34 mm
Print	Wordmark & domain	48 mm
Vehicle livery	Wordmark & domain	280 mm

Behaviour at small sizes

Fraunces carries fine serif detail that closes up below roughly 140 px at this width. Where less width than that is available — a favicon, an avatar, a jacket badge — use the RS monogram instead of shrinking the wordmark.

Applications

Which lockup lands where.

Incorrect usage

Do not	Reset the name in another typeface, or in a different Fraunces weight pairing
Do not	Add a space, hyphen or mixed case inside the name — it is one word, set in capitals
Do not	Set “LIMO” in gold on a white or light ground
Do not	Stretch, condense, rotate, outline or add effects to the artwork
Do not	Shrink the wordmark below its minimum width — use the monogram instead

+ Recommended enhancement

Pair this wordmark with the RS monogram as the icon of the same system: the wordmark introduces the brand, the monogram stands in wherever the name has already been established. Together they cover every surface without either one being stretched into a job it cannot do.
